So sure is Secretary Bryan of the peace negotiations that he permitted John Lind to proceed to his home in Minnesota. Lind had been dealing with the constitutionalist junta here.

Carranza's reply inviting him to be a factor in the proceedings may reach Niagara Falls today. The constitutionalist junta here knows the contents of the note, but they say inasmuch as it is addressed to the mediators they are the ones to make it public.

While the United States would like to have Carranza represented, if he does not agree to participate in the conference it will not mean that the rebels will turn down the peace plan. Carranza representatives have already approved in principle the plans offered by the mediators.

WILL MAKE EFFORT TO SECURE AN AGREEMENT ON THE PROPOSED CROSSING

The directors of the Portsmouth Board of Trade at a meeting held in the Masonic Temple Tuesday afternoon appointed Messrs. L. C. Turley, Mark Selby and Charles Daehler as a committee to meet with a committee of the city council to investigate the matter of an overhead crossing at Gallia and Young streets as against the proposed Kendall avenue subway.

Present at the meeting were all of the directors of the board together with Bannion and Bannion, representatives of the N. & W. railway, Levi D. York, Raymond D. York and Judge John C. Miller of the Portsmouth Street Railway company, and George E. Wharf, local agent of the E. & O. S.-W. railway.

The committee from the board of the steam railroads of the city. Under the law these could have gone ahead with the improvement during the past three years and if the street railway company used the subway then under the law the city would assess the amount the street railway should pay and the maximum per cent of which so to be assessed against the street railway is also by law.

The delay has been due to an effort to arrange a contract instead of proceeding under the law and further delay has been caused by repeated changes on the part of one or another from time to time. The law entirely covers the situation and there has been no fine in the past eight years when the city and steam railroads could not have proceeded and if the street railway failed to pay its proportion it could have been placed on the tax duplicate for collection.

The situation became complicated through the assumption of bonds on the part of the city and street railway company which eventually provide for a subway. This feature will have to be provided for in some manner as well as some other details, in fact, to all parties if plans are closed for a change from a subway to an overhead crossing.

Contrary to the general impression the matter is entirely in the hands of the city.

Atkinson is in charge of the New Avenue M. E. church in Columbus and is on his second year as the minister at that magnificent church. Just before leaving for Portsmouth the trustees of Rev. ## Surveyors At Work At Mabert Road

Because a gang of C. & O. surveyors have been quietly at work at Mabert Road, it was rumored Wednesday that it was a settled fact that the C. & O. had chosen this proposed route through the city on their way to Columbus.

Investigation soon revealed that the surveyors had been there for a week and that the definite route to be taken by the C. & O. would not be determined upon for several days. But tests of the title are still being made.

They've got it too in the amusement line. And they are showing their approval and appreciation by their increasing attendance. "The Last Treasure" gives all the good actors an opportunity for good acting and they make the most of their chance.

One of the particularly interesting features of the play was the introduction of Miss Charlotte Barnett, who kindly answered an emergency call to play the ingenue part of Bessie on a few hours notice. The audience here being called away suddenly.

Miss Barnett was a revelation. Pretty, sweet and thoroughly at home in her work. In addition to her own inherent ability she certainly did credit to the splendid audience she had received in the part of Bessie in the recent production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Portsmouth has reason to be proud of this talented young girl's work.

"The Last Treasure" will continue for the balance of the week with matinees Thursday and Saturday. On Thursday afternoon after the matinee the company will hold a reception to which all their friends are cordially invited.

Mrs. Jack Lewis, who has been very ill at her home, 217 Park street, is now better.

OF A MAN ACCUSED OF MISUSING LITTLE GIRLS

Because of the fact that the evidence of the prosecuting witnesses did not fully establish the man's guilt on a more serious charge, the mayor Wednesday afternoon arraigned H. T. Beatty, Sr., of Powellsville, on a charge of disorderly conduct under the city ordinance. He was found guilty and fined $10 and costs, which he paid and was released.

The mayor subjected the old gentleman to a scorching arraignment for his conduct in the West End Tuesday afternoon, and told him that it was evident that the only thing which saved him from a serious predicament was the fact that the two girls ran away from him when he tried to take liberties with them. Mrs. George Hehl and her eldest daughter appeared at the hearing as the prosecuting witnesses.

H. T. Beatty, Sr., veteran school teacher of Powellsville, this county, is being held at the city prison on a serious charge, based on complaint registered with the police early Tuesday evening by Mrs. George Hehl and Mrs. Newton Craine, of the West End. The women claim that Beatty mistreated their daughters, aged ten and twelve years, respectively, in the new building on Second street, which Ignatius Reitz is erecting. Beatty stoutly protests his innocence of wrongdoing, but he is being held pending a thorough investigation.

According to the enraged, took refuge from the hot sun in the mothers. Beatty was huddled in the building throughout the greater part of Tuesday afternoon, and took advantage of the seclusion offered inside the building to attempt immoral practices upon the innocent children. Four or five of the little girls of the neighborhood had been playing in the building during the greater part of the day.

Attention was called to Beatty's alleged actions when Mrs. Hehl's eldest daughter saw him take hold of her little sister. She at once notified the mother, who hurried across the street and rescued her little one, later notifying Officer Harding, who was in the vicinity of the building. Upon the strength of Mrs. Hehl's statement, Harding placed Beatty under arrest and lodged him in the city prison.

Beatty was brought before the mayor for an informal investigation Wednesday morning, on affidavit having been taken against him at that time, as the officials wanted to investigate before determining upon the seriousness of the charge to be lodged against him.

Beatty told the mayor that he came to Portsmouth Tuesday morning for a short visit, and suffering from the extreme heat along about the noon hour, sought relief in the shade at York park. Later, he says he walked to the empty bridge to view the work being done there, and returning,

He was greatly improved Wednesday morning, however, and it is not thought that there will be a recurrence of the attack. Alcoholism is attributed as the cause for the sudden change in his condition Tuesday. At the time of his accident Kelly was employed as porter at the Barr & Minney saloon, on Second street.

Upon the complaint of the proprietors of the Polar Ice Cream parlor on Eleventh street, Mrs. Charles Botes, a comely young woman who arrived in Portsmouth Tuesday morning from Columbus, was arrested early Tuesday evening by Officers Cooper and Flowers on a charge of disorderly conduct. The Greek owners of the place complained that the woman was creating a disturbance there and refused to leave when ordered. As there were no witnesses against her in police court Wednesday morning, the mayor held that the charge had not been established, and he ordered her release. Mrs. Botes told the mayor that she has a husband living in this city, who was guilty of improper conduct with several women about the city, and that she expected to file charges against him within the next day or so. He was with her early Tuesday evening, she said, and left her in the ice cream parlor, promising to return in a few moments. He never came back.

Rupert Hart, a popular young clerk of this city, was taken in tow on Gallia street Tuesday evening by Officer Andy Leslie and escorted to the police station, where he was placed on a charge of interfering with an officer. He gave bond for his release to appear Wednesday morning, which amount was forfeited.

Leslie claims that Hart tried to make him the "laughing stock" of a large crowd on Gallia street early Tuesday evening while he was in the act of killing a dog about which complaint had been made. Leslie had received orders from headquarters to kill the dog, which was biting and snapping at people, but when he arrived there was such a large crowd about that he was afraid to fire his gun, fearing that the bullet would rebound from the pavement and hit some one. Instead, he struck it over the head with his club several times, finally killing it.

The Paige—and Public Demand

In Three Years, Paige Sales Have Increased
From $44,000 to more than $1,250,000 a Month

These astounding figures are indisputable evidence of Paige supremacy in the medium price field.

They indicate an increasing demand for Paige cars that is without parallel in the middle division of the Automobile Industry. They affirm plainly and clearly that the Paige is a "preferred" investment with the motor buying public—the "first choice" of men who weigh motor car values.

As you turn these figures over in your mind, remember that increased sales can only come as a result of increased demand. The public does the buying—the public alone determines whether automobile sales shall increase or decrease.

So—above all—these figures mean that the motor public has rendered an overwhelming verdict in favor of the Paige. In the most substantially convincing way—by an investment of over $1,250,000 a month—Motor Car buyers have selected the Paige as the best value of the medium priced field.

With the facts before you—in the face of such sweeping evidence—can you afford to purchase any car until you have carefully investigated the Paige? Isn't it logical to assume that there is a tangible, practical reason back of this marked preference for one car.

See the Paige today. The answer is in the car itself.

HURT WHEN HE CRASHES
INTO INTERSTATE TRUCK

For the second time within two months, Louis Smith, eighteen year old bookkeeper at the Harbison-Walker brick plant in the East End, fell a victim to a motorcycle accident Tuesday evening. Smith now lies at his home at 1917 Eighth street, suffering from multiple injuries of more or less serious nature sustained in a collision with an Interstate automobile truck at Eighth and Prospect streets about 7:30 o'clock.

Smith, according to residents in the neighborhood where the accident occurred, was speeding down Eighth street at a rapid rate. So great was his speed that he was unable to check his machine as the Interstate truck turned east on Eighth street from Prospect street.

When he saw that it was impossible for him to stop in time to avoid a collision, young Smith veered his machine to the left, while the driver of the truck stopped as soon as possible. The collision, however, could not be avoided, and the fast moving motorcycle crashed against the running board of the truck, the impact hurling the machine and rider twenty feet before they fell with terrible force to the paved street.

Smith's right shoe was torn off his foot in the collision, his right foot and ankle being twisted in a horrible manner, while the left foot on his right leg from the hip down was badly lacerated by being dragged along the brick pavement. In falling, Smith struck on the back of his head, inflicting a gash about three inches in length which penetrated to the bone. His machine, which was practically demolished, fell on top of him as he lay, wounded and bleeding in the middle of the street.

The young victim was borne to an empty lot nearby by residents in that vicinity who witnessed the accident, and first aid rendered pending the arrival of Dr. Harry Schirrmann, who was called to attend his injuries. Young Smith suffered excruciating pain, and his cries could be heard for squares.

After the arrival of Dr. Schirrmann, Smith was taken to his home about two squares east of where the accident occurred, where an examination showed that his injuries were not merely skin deep. The physician took three X-ray photographs of the wrecked foot and ankle to determine the extent of the injuries there, while several stitches were required to close the deep gash in the back of his head. Smith continued to suffer from his injuries.

NERVY ROBBERS LOOT
HIBBS COMPANY STORE
IN GLARE OF LIGHT

One of the boldest robberies that has been perpetrated in years in Portsmouth was pulled off before midnight Tuesday night at the Hibbs Hardware company's store on Sixth street, when thieves, working under a glare of a dozen powerful electric lights, secured cash and plunder of an aggregate value of $160. Entrance to the store was gained through a rear door, the robbers smashing out a window pane, leaving an opening through which it was possible to unfasten the catch that fastens the door from the inside.

The cash register, located on the east side of the lower floor, in full view of passersby on Sixth street, was rifled of all its contents, amounting to $14.84 in silver dollars, half dollars, quarters, dimes, nickels and pennies. Three dozen Rogers pearl-handled pocket knives, varying in value from $2.50 to $5 apiece, three manicure sets valued at $5 each, three Gillette safety razors, and other minor articles were discovered missing in a hurried investigation made by Ed Appel, president of the Hibbs Hardware company who was on the scene within a half hour after the robbery was discovered. Owing to the amount and character of the stock carried by the firm, it was impossible to make a thorough investigation and a more diligent search may reveal other articles missing. The thieves ransacked the safe and desks in the office of the firm, located at the south end, but secured nothing of value there. The big safe containing money and valuables was not disturbed.

Discovered By
Kielman

Merchant Policeman John Kielman discovered the robbery while making his rounds through the alley in the rear of the Hibbs building about 11:30 o'clock. While trying the rear doors of the building, he discovered the big sliding double-door in the center of the building raised about two inches. This prompted him to make a more thorough investigation, in the course of which he discovered that one of the glass panes in the door had been broken out. A long wooden buggy top base, wrapped with cloth on one end, had been left standing against the side of the building, and the theory is that it was used in smashing the pane of glass.

Police Aro Notified
Kielman immediately notified police headquarters by telephone, and in turning in the alarm at the patrol box in front of Muller Brothers' meat market on Chilli street, met Officer John Smith, who was in the act of calling in at his usual time. Smith accompanied Kielman back to the store, and Captain McCarthy and Officer Leslie arrived soon afterward. Before their arrival, Smith made a search of the interior of the store in the hope of locating the robbers inside, while Kielman stood guard at the rear door. Captain McCarthy and Leslie later joined him in the search, and again after the arrival of Ed Appel, another search of the four floors and basement was made without success. The officers even penetrated every nook and corner on the roof in search of the thieves.

Knew How To Work
Cash Register.
No attempt was made to ascertain the extent of the operations of the robbers until after the arrival of Mr. Appel, who was called out of bed by the police. His first glance at the cash register, the drawer of which was standing wide open, confirmed the report that a robbery had taken place. Change amounting to $14.84 had been left in the register at closing time, all of which was missing. The man who rifled the cash register knew how to operate the machine, for he succeeded in getting it open without "jimmying" it. Mr. Appel next made an examination of the office, but nothing of value was found missing, although the contents of the files and drawers had been tampered with and were in a disordered state.

Cutlery Was In Demand
After the safe had been examined and found to be intact, the head of the company next examined the cutlery department, which is the department that is usually visited first by robbers. Three dozen pearl-handled knives of the most expensive make were stolen from a front show case, located within ten feet of the front door, and in full view of the sidewalk and street. In their haste to get away, the thieves dropped one box containing two knives valued at $5 each. The show case next to the one containing the knives was also ransacked, three Gillette razors and three manicure sets being missing. A hurried examination of the lower floor failed to disclose anything else missing, although it would take a careful investigation of the stock to determine whether or not some of the smaller articles in stock had been taken. Twelve big electric lights, were burning on the first floor throughout the evening, and the interior was brilliantly lighted up.

Man Arrested
On Suspicion
Early Wednesday morning, Walter Windle, a local painter, who has been under arrest numerous times for various offenses, was arrested on suspicion of knowing something about the robbery. He was seen coming out of the Hibbs alley by Officer John Smith five minutes before the robbery was discovered, and he will be held pending an examination. Captain McCarthy and Officer Leslie made a search of his home on Eleventh street about one o'clock in the morning but he had not yet turned in for the night. Later officers apprehended him in the North End.

Ed Appel, president of the Hibbs Hardware company, was at work in the store until 10 o'clock Tuesday night, so that the robbery was committed some time between that hour and 11:30 o'clock. From all appearances, the robbery was committed by men who were more or less familiar with the premises.
